

Megatrends in Germany

July 2022

Table of Contents

Scope

The drivers shaping consumer behaviour

Megatrends framework

Businesses harness megatrends to renovate, innovate and disrupt

Digital living

Reacting to rising online shopping, DHL expands on last mile delivery

Millennials and Generation Z are the main tech users in Germany

High levels of reluctance to engage with companies through social media

Generation Z more open to engaging than older generations

Germans less likely to rely on social media for shopping influences

Clear acknowledgment that online is the future despite caution

Experience more

TeamViewer Engage enhances the online shopping experience

Real world experiences are the stand-out across all cohorts

Meeting up with friends most frequent leisure activity

Relaxation and safety are the most important holiday features

Generation Z notably keener to be back to real life

Middle class reset

Mycashbacks : a good way to engage with German consumers shopping on a budget

Frugal mindset means that consumers are happy to “make do and mend”

Strong swapping, sharing and renting mindset, driven by saving and sustainability trends

Frugal purchasing intentions less ingrained than globally

Premiumisation

BLAEK offers premium instant coffee

Simplifying their lives is by far the strongest motivation for Germans

German consumers seem broadly pessimistic and less engaged

Quality, sustainability and performance are top features for home care and apparel

Shifting market frontiers

C&A: Initiative to reshore production to Germany and gain in agility

Just half of respondents feel it is important to experience other cultures

Baby boomers more likely to try to purchase locally-produced items

Shopping reinvented

Henkel's Somat Smart consumable insert goes in dishwashers, taking over auto-dosing

Purchasing via computers and tablets is growing across all categories

Low levels of online engagement compared with global

Generation Z are showing themselves more open to a conversation with brands

Sustainable living

Rewe Group explores urban farming in sustainability push in Germany

Climate change and the environment are the top ethical issues

Reducing the use of plastics seen as prominent green behaviour

Consumers more likely to boycott brands that do not share their beliefs

Around 50% of consumers rate recyclable, biodegradable and compostable as sustainable

Wellness

True fruits launches first cannabis smoothie in Germany

Millennials and Generation X more broadly concerned with health

Herbal remedies are the top choice for stress-reduction activities

Lower rates of health tech take-up compared to global average

Low levels of health and safety precaution-taking compared with global average

About Euromonitor International

Euromonitor International is an independent market intelligence provider. Data, insight and analysis stem from in-the-field research spanning 210 national markets.

Content ranges from the in-depth and country-specific, to key strategic themes with a global range and significance. Products cover a comprehensive range of insights and market data, but can be broadly categorised as:

- Strategy Briefings: Global or regional in scope, and focussing on the most important themes shaping consumer demand, the key markets, competitive environment and future outlook across a range of industries.
- Company Profiles: Analysis dedicated to the world's most significant companies, with detailed insight into their activities, focus of operations, their competitors, their geographic presence and performance.
- Country Reports: For an in-depth understanding of specific countries, whether by industry, economic metrics or consumer trends and lifestyles. These reports cover current trends, consumer demand, market potential and future prospects, with country-specific local insight and comprehensive data, unavailable elsewhere.

For more information on this report, further enquiries can be directed via this link www.euromonitor.com/megatrends-in-germany/report.